The mal spectacular scene of the day was at Thirls Park. The President's reception fere by $0.00 school children was the most inspiring feature of the programic. All the way the crowd cheered, and the children sang "America" while a jand played the national air. On Almo plaza, within the shadow of the old Alama, he was greeted in a manner, which profoundly touched him. His adval was the signal for a burst of chefring, which lasted until after he had then his seat on the stand, and which was renewed, when he arose to respod to the address of welcome by Alderian Kirkpatrick. President Speaks.

President Speaks.

The President made a characteristic address. He was pleased that San Antipo agreed with him in his ideas on rat suicide. He noted with satisfaction the attention the Texans are paying to edeation. The law of the worthy life, the effort in a cause worthy of strivity for, was his theme. The President goke as follows:

It thank you all for the way in which I have cen greeted. You can hardly imagine how much it means to me to come back to San Antonio in this way and to be received as you have received me. (Applause).

"I know that the rest of you will not grudge my saying a special word of acknowledgement to two sets among your citizens; first, to the men of the great war, to the men who wore the Blue or wore the Gray in the days that tried men's souls, My fellow-citizens, infinitely more important than any President infinitely more important even than the reception to any President is what is symbolized by seeing the men who fought in the Confederate army standing minside together, fellow Americans, in devotion and honor and loyalty to the country shoulder to shoulder as fellow-citizens of the mightiest republic upon which the sun has eyer shone. Indeed, the man would have a poor heart, a poor spirit who would not be thrilled by such a meeting as this; and, by such a sight as you accord me to-day, you of the Gray, you of the Blue, all one, under know that the rest of you will not flag of this reunited country, (Ap-

President Greets Rough Riders.

The President spoke of the organization of the Rough Riders, of the lesson of brotherhood taught by the varied membership of the regiment, complimented the Texans on the attention paid to educating their children and referred to the mother as having a harder time of it than the solder. Touching on the Monroe Doctring, he said: "I have a little difficulty in getting some of my friends to accept my interpretation of it, out they will in time, because that interpretation has come to stay (applause). We are building the Pamama Canal (cheers and applause). While that will be a benefit to all the country, it will be of most benefit to the Gulf States. We have duties in connection with the great position we have taken. That is one reason why I want to see a good havy."

After leaving the plaza, the President's progress was again a continuous cyalion and he saw no diminution in the crowds that fined the streets until he gut far out on the way to the fair grounds. The proceedings after the party entered the fair grounds were of the most informal character. The Rough Riders pressed around the President and the secret service men imoved away. This informal reception lasted for a half hour or so, the President greeting and chalting with each of the men who had served with him.

The route back to the city was along Roosevelt Avenue and past the arsenal grounds. A large crowd in, vehicles of various kinds followed the party and the throngs grew more dense as the cavaldade drew near the hotel.

The President was given a banquet in the Menger Hotel this evening by the Business Men's Club. At its conclusion he was presented by the club with a handsome pair of silver spurs with gold buttons and ornaments.

After the banquet the President bade farewell to the members of the chamittee in the parlors of the hotel. His train left for Fort Worth at 11 o'clock tonight.

WAS COUSIN KATE

The Comedy Would Read Better Than It Plays-Amelia Bingham.

"Cousin Kate." which was presented at the Academy last night, is a charmingly written comedy. Miss Roselle Knott, as Cousin Kate, bore the greater part of the burden of the piece, and gave an excellent portrayal of the role, which required most delicate treatment, in order to blend the opposing element of her nature, in which there was a depth of feeling beneath her outward show of light heartedness. Mr. William Carbett, as Heath Desmond, was quite pleasing in the manner in which he impersonated the young Irish lover. Mr. Howard Smith was also, entirely satisfactory as the self-satisfied young clergyman, and Lois Clarke, Elizabeth King and Augustine Daly Wilks were quite capable in their respective roles.

Amelia Bingham in "Mile Marn!" eatest success of her career will n at the Academy this afternoon

Miss Amelia Bingham in "Mile Marni," the greatest success of her career will be seen at the Academy this afternoon and to-night.

She is surrounded by a company of wonderful excellence and her own part is the strongest, in which she has ever appeared, while her play is the crowning effort of all the productions she has made since, became America's only actress-manager, some five seasons ago, and produced Clyde Fitch's greatest play. "The Climbers."

"Mile Marni" is a modern comedy society drama and its scenes are laid in places which permit of the most gorgeous scenery and accessories. $25,000 would not reproduce the beautiful bricabrac, paintings, statuary, etc., used by Miss Bingham in this production, while her gowns more than justify the reputation she has had for many years, of being America's most beautifully and expensively gowned actress.

The annual public debate of the Philologian Literary Society of Richmond College was greeted by a large and appreciative crowd, it was a truly college andlence, and the good points of the speakers received generous appliause.

The programme was begun with prayer by Rev. Ryland Knight, and an address of welcome by D. M. Simmons, president of the society. A recitation was given by L. W. Smith. Noison county, entitled "Jennie McNelll," and C. W. Dickinson, of Cumberland county, gave a reading, "Huld's Pumpkin Ples," both of which were excellently done.

The question for debate was; "Resolved, That Laboy, Organizations are a Benefit to the American People." S. G. Harwood, Appomatox county, and A. O. Edmundson, Washington county, defended the affirmative, while F. L. Hardy, Richmond, and W. D. Bromner, Canada, spoke for the negative. All the speakers devel, but especially did Mr. Hardy's fervid oratory and Mr. Bremner's Secten humor win the applause of the audience.

Addresses McGuire's Boys.

Dr. George H Denny, president of Washington and Lee University, delivered an attractive address before McGuire's Scool vesterday morning.

Choosing The Value of a College Education' as his subject, Dr. Denny urged upon his hearers the high value of a broad and liberal education to the individual, the community and the State, The cultivated men in any community, he declared, form a nucleus around which all movements for higher and better things, public and private, usually gather, Patriotism of the highest and most unseibsh order is native to the walls of our institutions of liberal learning. No narrow and selfish aim, he said, would govern a young man in seeking a wider and higher education. Not the desire for individual advancement or personnal gain, but the nobler purpose, that in improving his own mind and broadening his own knowledge he multiplies his capacity for his strength for others; the man who, like Agassiz, is "too binsy to make money." That man is bred in our universities.

Dr. Denny's address, of extraordinary character and delivered with great force, made a deep impression upon the minds of his hearers and will not soon be forgotten by them.

case in the past, when the teamsters are called on to assist in a sympathetic strike, the down town streets of Chicago today were the scenes of disorder which followed fast on each other, when an attempt was made to deliver goods with non-union drivers. Many teamsters, garment workers and their friends filled the streets, and many clashes with polico occurred. In several instances it was necessary for the police to place a number of the belligerents under arrest before the blockades could be lifted.

Although the police worked incessantly all day to keep the streets clear in the vicinity of the Ward building, the crowd became so dense at one time during the day that all traffic was blockaded. For ypolicemen charged the crowd, using their clubs. The friends of the strikers were stubborn, however, and for several minutes resisted. The fight was too one-sided, however, to last long, and the crowd finally dispersed, and during the remainder of the afternoon the streets about the building were kept clear. Various meetings looking toward peace were held to-day, but no progress was made, and the indications to-night are that the strike will spread to other concerns.
